A Fine Point of Distinction

Whatever fancies may have filled the minds of those who wanted higher wages and fixed prices, all present facts point to the same conclusion; that prices and wages are going up together and will cancel each other. Senator Barkley, administration leader in the Senate, thinks the price increase will run as high as 20 per cent. American Federation of Labor is beginning to doubt there is any net advantage to labor in wage increases that are offset by higher prices.

A fine point of distinction between higher wages and higher prices and lower purchasing power of dollars is beginning to come out of the Washington fumble with wage and price increases. Up to a certain point, it may seem nothing is involved, except an upward movement of wages, production costs and, ultimately, prices. Beyond that point, however, the trend ceases to be an "adjustment" of wages and prices and becomes ordinary deterioration of money, i. e., inflation.

In countries that have experienced the disaster of runaway inflation, there was no talk of rising wages and rising prices, but only of the cheapening of money. The United States dollar, which has been relatively stable, is not immune to the same disaster that overtook the franc and the mark. To protect it is the thought of all who serve stabilization by practicing it, as against those who talk about stabilization but practice inflation. A workman who draws $50 a week and needs $45 to pay his living expenses is better off than one who draws $100 a week and needs $150, an obvious truth that inflationists never see. The way to give wage earners a better break is to reduce living costs by increasing the purchasing power of dollars.

Objections Overruled

Spring will come this month. Already, the posters are up. There is green in sunny places. Perennials are breaking the sheltering ground. Birds are breaking their winter silence. The early sun is bright, and the mid-day sun is warm. Children are flying kites and oiling roller skates. Marbles are being rounded up for the opening of the season. Baseball hokum is back on the sports pages.

Staunch judges of weather who over-ruled all objections to its variable nature in this climate on the grounds that they reflect ignorance welcome spring. It upholds them in their judgment that we have in this climate the finest all-around weather on earth. With proper allowances for the bad days and man's natural yearning to be somewhere else where the grass is greener, it is the finest weather on earth.

For as long as four years, war veterans have wanted to be back where they are now, to see spring come to the Garden of Eden. There are no misgivings about the treat in store for them in 1946. It will be the most wonderful spring within the memory of man. Every spring is the most wonderful within the memory of man, and this one will be no exception.

The Makings of An Argument

Preparations for the first postwar atomic bomb test in May are stirring up arguments with explosive possibilities not much less than the bomb itself.

But the greatest difference of opinion that will follow the test is between army aviators and navy salts.

We are about to have on a grander scale the same argument about bombs vs. battleships that raged after World War I. That argument, too, started with a test in which various types of naval craft were bombed by planes dropping the deadliest missiles then known. It raged for some 20 years, sparked by the natural jealousy between military departments. Again, departments are in conflict. Army air force experts are going to prove that the navy is obsolete.

The late Gen. William Mitchell, aviation enthusiast of the army, was in charge of the experiment in which army planes were used to "prove" that battleships were obsolete in 1921. To this day, no one is sure what was proved. As far as the navy was concerned, nothing was proved. Gen. Mitchell became the storm center of a raging controversy that finally forced his resignation from the army. At the outbreak of World War II, battleships were still in use. At the end of the war, they were still in use. They are going to be tested again, this time with a vastly more powerful bomb. As for proving anything, the atomic bomb might as well be dropped down the crater of a volcano. Provided the explosion does not wipe out everything within range, it won't wipe out confidence in the role of fighting ships in war.

A Course Is Charted

At long last the thing for which all of us would-be consumers have been wishing and waiting has happened. Common sense and the American spirit of understanding compromise have entered the blood-spattered arena of current economic controversy.

The auspicious debut was made in Detroit, where officials of the Ford Motor company and of the CIO's United Automobile Workers got together, calmly talked over their differences in an atmosphere of co-operative honesty rather than in that of the re-priming super-sensitivity which has marked so many labor-management conferences, and made the astonishing discovery that continued production was to their mutual interest. Both "sides" were, in fact, so thoroughly convinced that an operating plant was preferable to a closed one that each found itself willing to sacrifice inane class "face" and announce a series of genuine concessions.

The company agreed to an 18-cent per hour wage increase, retroactive to January 5, and to a full-time grievance-investigating status for factory union representatives. The union agreed to prevent illegal workstoppages and to sanction discharge of trouble-making or inefficient workers. So saying, the two parties shook hands and parted friends, to meet again the next morning at their common place of business not as enemies under painful truce, but as industrial partners pointing the way to a new era of economic peace. It was as simple as that.

Elsewhere the picture remains diametrically different. Just how sadly different was revealed with the release, at almost the same time, of preliminary estimates of the Bureau of Labor Statistics covering the month of January.

The record shows that during that one month there were approximately 500 strikes, involving a "grand" total of 1,750,000 employees and producing an all-time high (or, more appropriately, low) of 19,200,000 man-days lost. It does not show the infinite human suffering inevitably involved.

That is the inescapable story of American industrial civilization in this Year of Our Lord 1946. That is the record compiled by human irascibility, by human recalcitrance, by human folly.

And yet in an American city, capital of the automotive industry, in that same period, representatives of the same warring factions, faced with the same problems and exposed to the same explosive elements, met and arrived at an amicable and mutually satisfactory solution.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, March 6.

A TENACIOUS obstacle or a decisive impasse seems to hold up, postpone or crystallize progress already made on some previously well-organized and advanced projects or plan. A miscalculation, false move or situation in which credit, funds and resources are recklessly handled threaten to tear down certain well-laid-out defenses.

Excitement, excess over-enthusiasm or high-handedness are likely to backfire with hazardous results. Keep cool.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may seemingly "come up against a stone wall" or a tenacious obstacle or depression, after much progress and achievement on major aims or propositions, already well established. This might be involved with "frozen assets," want of credit or financial backing.

A static or congested state of affairs would best be broken up by calm and considered action, deeply-studied plans and policies, aimed at winning substantial support from those in high places, who should be handled with finesse as well as generosity and good will.

Reasons For Pain In Right Side of Abdomen

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

PAIN in the right side of the abdomen is often due to appendicitis. This does not mean that all cases of right-sided pain come from this cause. In the same way, increased frequency of emptying the bladder with pain and the presence of pus in the urine, is often caused by an inflammation of the bladder known as cystitis, but this does not mean that many other disorders may not produce these symptoms.

Hence, when such bladder symptoms occur, a careful study is needed to tell just what disorder is present. Furthermore, according to Dr. Herman N. Kretschmer of Chicago, the cystitis or inflammation of the bladder may in turn be produced by various other disturbances. Sometimes the cystitis develops following an operation. It sometimes recurs at intervals because of an infection in the pelvis or the kidney.

Bladder Symptoms
Bladder symptoms may also be produced by constipation or by inflammation of the colon or large intestine due to the excessive use of cathartics. Tuberculosis of the kidney may be followed by tuberculosis infection of the bladder. Infection of the lymph glands in the neck, and bone infections, often may lead to bladder symptoms, such as frequent emptying. Diseases of the womb, of the tubes, or of the ovaries, may be responsible for frequent urination and pus in the urine.

To complete the diagnosis, an examination of the bladder by the patient and relieve pain, and the application of heat to the bladder area, that is, over the lower part of the abdomen.

For from seven to ten days, some alkaline substance such as baking soda or potassium citrate is given to make the urine alkaline. Then a drug known as hexamethylenamine may be administered when the urine is acid again. If constipation is present, it should be overcome by proper treatment, but the giving of strong laxatives is inadvisable. If these simple measures do not relieve the cystitis, it is probable that there is some complication present which is causing the condition to continue. Further treatment consists in finding this complicating factor if that is possible and getting rid of it.

Immediate Treatment

Once a definite diagnosis of cystitis is made, treatment should be started at once. This according to Dr. Kretschmer consists of complete rest in bed during the early stages, the giving of drugs to quiet

Scouts and Officials To Map Plans For Outings at County Reservation

Salem scoutmasters will meet with City Commissioner Eddie Howell late this week to discuss plans for taking local troops to the McKinley reservation near Lisbon for weekend camping trips.

Many troops in the county have already used the cabin there while several others have made reservations for short stays. No Salem troop has signified its intentions of a weekend trip but it is expected that this week's parleys will end with a number of the local troops definitely interested in a camping project.

Equipped with a new cabin which will serve as a kitchen and dining room during the summer camping season, the 130-acre McKinley scout reservation, located a mile northwest of Lisbon in Center township, is being put in order to receive its annual influx of boys from all over the Columbiana Boy Scout council's area.

For Year-Round Camping

The new cabin, designed for year-round service, already has been booked heavily for weekend camping.

The cabin provides cooking and sleeping facilities for 18 scouts when used as winter camping quarters. Converted into a dining room and kitchen in the summer, when scouts sleep outdoors in tents, it can accommodate 36 scouts at its tables.

The cabin is the latest development in a long-range program to expand the rustic reservation, which takes its name from the fact that the homestead of William McKinley's father stands on the property.

Built in 1806, the homestead is being remodeled as rapidly as circumstances permit. Eventually it will be a training center for the entire council. The original exterior appearance is being retained in the modernization.

Besides the homestead, the tract also contains the ruins of the old "McKinley" or "Rebecca" blast furnace, built about the same time as one of the first furnaces west of the Alleghenies, using ore and coal mined in the vicinity. Charcoal was obtained from farmers in the area and from heavily-timbered sections of the present camp grounds.

The old Sandy-Beaver canal traversed the property. The present swimming pool is part of one of the canal's reservoirs.

Tract Purchased In '35

The council purchased the tract in 1935. Because it has been designated as a state game reserve, many species of wild life may be seen and tracked by nature-wise scouts.

Plans call for construction in the future of another cabin like the one just completed, installation of a number of tent platforms, and erection of several sleeping shelters.

Each year, early in July, between 300 and 400 scouts gather at the reservation for their annual "Camporee." The 1946 event will be the 16th annual "Camporee" which usually runs for a week.

In addition, many troops camp at the reservation for periods of two to 10 days throughout the summer vacation.

The church was lighted by white candles in tall seven-branch candelabra.

SAP'S RUNNING

Geauga County Farmers Happy As Maple Sugar Season Arrives

CHARDON, March 5—Sap's running.

In the maple bush country of Geauga county farmers' faces are as bright and happy as a redbird's chirp. Sunny skies and balmy breezes touched off the first run of the season in the woods, and the drip of liquid in the sap pails was vernal music pleasant to the ears.

Last season the run was the poorest in years. Would 1946 be a good year?

The season's run is as hard to predict as it is to tell which way a woodchuck will jump.

If there is alternate freezing and thawing, production will be good. If all the days are moderate, soft buds will uncurl on the maples, and that will end the run. Sap from budding trees turns bitter, and the last of the run can't be made into syrup and sugar. And after the buds are on, the tappers even have to quit on the liquid that is used to sweeten smoking tobacco.

ALLIES' ARMED FORCES GROW

With the exception of France, the peace-time armed forces of the major Allies will be bigger than their prewar ones. No official Russian figures are available, but informed sources say five million men is a minimum estimate. The U. ### RESULTS AT SOUTH

Canton McKinley 45, Hubbard 25.
Warren 45, Alliance 37.
Canton Lincoln 39, Yeglin, Ursuline 36.
Struthers 41, East Palestine 23.

TWO SEEDED CLUBS—Canton McKinley and Warren—last night continued their domination of their respective brackets by lacing Hubbard and Alliance, respectively, at the Youngstown Class A district tournament before another full house of some 3,000 fans.

McKinley meets Lincoln in the district semi-finals at 7 Thursday. In the other two contests Canton Lincoln posted its second win in a hair-raiser, beating Youngstown Ursuline's Irish, 39-36, in the opener, and East Palestine's game Bulldogs went down to Struthers, 41-23, in the 8 p. m. show.

Struthers clashes with Warren at 8 Thursday.

ONCE AGAIN the coaching ability of McKinley's Bud Reack showed up well against a powerful opponent. Hubbard, winner of 17 in 1939, looked like another hall club against the Reack specialists.

Out-maneuvered all the way in every department, the Canton Bulldogs were good evidence of why the Canton fans literally "eat up" basketball and trek 55 miles nightly in droves to see their teams perform.

McKinley's Pete Spera, a neat bundle of basketball ability, dropped in 12 points to hold the honors, while his mates, Bob Lilly and Bob Tucci, each collected eight.

ALLIANCE'S AVIATORS gave the Presidents from Warren a thrill for the best part of three quarters. Led by Frankie Commons, a fight-packed shorty, the Stark county lads led 12-11 at the quarter and 23-22 by halftime. Warren, paced by Gene Gherlein with 17 points, pulled away to lead 35-26 at the close of the third period. Commons scored 18 for the evening. His mate, Freeman Rose, suffered an injury in the final minutes and had to be carried from the floor via a stretcher.

TOURNAMENT OFFICIALS gave further evidence last night that the Northeastern Ohio basketball tournament—because it is being held at South's field house—is now considered by the field as a Youngstown affair. This is not correct, but it is the belief that obviously guides the thinking of those in charge of the tourney.

Announcement was made again last night that reserved seat tickets—some 1,000 of them—will be available at a certain Youngstown drug store after 9 a. m. the morning of each day's games.

No such seats are made available to any non-Youngstown group of fans. It seems to be strictly a Youngstown arrangement. There were 27 teams in this tourney at the start; there are now 12 teams still participating, three of which represent Youngstown.

Why the definite show of favoritism to Youngstown fans? Salem fans, along with those from eight other schools, are still forced to matriculate to the field house at 6 p. m. for a 9 p. m. game in order to be sure of a place to sit.

Either all reserved seats should be equally distributed among the schools participating in the tourney or none should be sold at all. The Youngstowners have as much right to stand or arrive early and earn their seats—as a follower from Salem, Canton, or any other community.

Youngstown, domination and favoritism, from team seedings down to the treatment of the guy who just looks on, is becoming more and more unbearable.

BARRING AN UPSET tonight in the Salem-Louisville game at South field house, Coach Bob Miller's Quakers should be starting their worries tomorrow over a second meeting with Youngstown Rayen in a 9 p. m. battle Friday.

For if Salem defeats Louisville tonight, Rayen will undoubtedly be the next step in tourney play—if Rayen defeats Niles tonight, as they are expected to do.

Although the Quakers defeated the seeded Rayen club, 47-33, at Salem earlier in the year, things may not be quite so easy on the South court. The Youngstowners consider South their "second home" and the power and polish displayed in Saturday's Quaker-Girard game should make Quakerdown followers stop and consider a minute before figuring Rayen easy picking.

MANUEL PARADA, Charlie Frost and Jerry Goldenberg comprise a Rayen scoring trio which will be difficult to hold down on the roomy Youngstown floor. Saturday night Parada collected 21, Frost 12 and Goldenberg 12.

Utilization of a rapid-fire fast break was the finish of Girard. The Girard defeat Saturday, 57-34, was no "hot" night for Rayen. The two teams met previously this season and Rayen won easily, 60-22.

SALEM FROSH WIN 1ST TOURNERY TRY

Trip Alliance State Street To Advance Into Second Round

Trailing the Alliance State St. Jr. High quintet by a 22-20 count with less than two minutes to play, the Salem High school freshmen turned on the heat to notch a 25-22 victory over their rivals last night at Massillon in the first round of the annual Massillon Junior high tourney.

The win, 15th in a row and third over this same Alliance team, advanced the Quakers to the second round of the tournament. Their next opponent will be Canton Central Catholic which toppled Barberton Portage in its initial try. The game is scheduled at 6:40 p. m. Thursday.

Other games yesterday saw Akron Garfield dump Broadway, the other Alliance entry, Columbiana eliminate Osnaburg Township Canton St. Peters trip the Barberton Frosh, Beach City win over Medina, Massillon Edmund A. Jones "A" cagers defeat Louisville and Cambridge top Dover.

The Quakers led throughout last night's contest until two minutes of play remained when Thorpe of Alliance connected for a two-point-er to tie the score at 20-20 and Gentin came through with a field-er to send the Flourtown flipper ahead by two points.

With only 70 seconds of the game left, Walt Ehrhart registered his first point of the game as he made good on a free throw. Seconds later, he stole the ball from an Alliance player, dribbled in and laid up a shot which sent Salem into a 23-22 lead. Tommy Miner then clinched the contest as he took a pass from a teammate to tally with 10 seconds left.

"Biggie" Faulkner and Ed Bezich sparked the Salem attack with seven points while Dick Tolson flipped in five points, three of them from the foul stripe. Gentin was the Alliance big gun with seven.

Will Compete With Jacobs' New York Setups In Fights In City And Rest Of U. S.

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, March 5.—Jack Dempsey came back to the fight game's big-time today with a job that some boxing promoters described as making him some sort of a Judge Landis of the beak-busting business—outside of New York. His salary is estimated from $50,000 to $100,000 a year.

Of course, none of the promoters stood up in meeting to say that a stew was cooking against Promoter Mike Jacobs in connection with the Old Manassa Mauler's new combined spot as president of Boxing Promoters of America, Inc., and a director of Adams Hat Co. in charge of public relations and sports activities. You didn't need a blueprint to get somewhat of an idea about it.

Jack, himself, came closer than anyone to speaking a piece concerning the

STUDY U. S. PART IN WORLD PATROL

America Expected to Contribute Ships, Aircraft For Police Duty

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 5.—The number of men, ships and planes this country may be willing to contribute to UNO's international police force is expected to be decided tentatively within the next two weeks.

Present indications are that the emphasis will be on warships and aircraft, rather than on troops. The question is in the hands of the joint chiefs of staff. This group of top army-navy leaders is due to come up with some kind of an answer before the March 21 meeting in New York of the military staff committee of UNO's Security council.

Composed of representatives of the Big Five—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France and China—the military staff committee will be faced at the outset with the problem of determining the size and makeup of the force with which the United Nations will undertake to "maintain or restore international peace and security."

Belief that the American contribution probably will be largely in naval and air power was termed a "logical assumption" in view of this country's strength in those arms and the Army's current manpower difficulties.

Any American offer must be tentative because the whole issue of security forces is subject to congressional approval after the form of the police organization is completed.

Seeks Vice Probe

In an effort to smoke out the nation's lords of commercialized vice, Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida is sponsoring a bill to permit the Federal Security Administration to expand the anti-vice program it has been carrying out since 1941 in collaboration with states and municipalities.

Army Offering College Courses To Enlistees

In its present drive for volunteer enlisted men the U. S. Army is offering opportunities for a full-four-year college education, extensive foreign travel, the choice to learn any one of 237 trades, the highest pay scale in its history, and a generous retirement after 20 years of service.

"After a soldier completes a three-year enlistment the government will pay for his college education as a civilian if he meets college entrance requirements," explained S/Sgt. Harvey J. Kennedy of army recruiting station.

Warns Election Boards
COLUMBUS, March 5.—Headquarters of county election boards must not be used for political activities, Edward J. Hummel, secretary of state, warned in letters to Ohio's 88 election boards. Hummel said he had received several complaints of such use.

Veterans Salt Away Jobless Pay Rights

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Veterans are salt away their jobless payment rights.

Only 10,000 of the 9,000,000 or so demobilized have drawn all the $20-a-week checks to which the G. I. Bill of Rights entitles nearly all of them while they are out of work. In general, veterans are entitled to 52 weeks' compensation, unless on strike.

The figures came today from Ray R. Adams, chief of the Readjustment Allowance division of the Veterans administration, who also noted:

A total of 2,300,000 veterans have been on the unemployed rolls from time to time. But nearly half of them have dropped off, with more checks waiting for them if they lose their jobs within the period covered by the law.

The current listed total of unemployed veterans is now close to 1,200,000, and the number is still rising.

"The weekly load sounds astronomical," Adams conceded, "but when one considers that the average length of time a veteran receives the payments is only six to seven weeks, it is indicative of a tremendous turnover."

Knights of Columbus Hold Initiation Rites

The first degree was exemplified on seven candidates at a meeting of Salem council, Knights of Columbus, last night in the club rooms, S. Broadway.

The work was put on by the officers, headed by Grand Knight Edwin Probst. The team will go to Alliance tonight to initiate a class in the first degree for the council there.

At the social period lunch was served and short talks were given by Rev. John P. Lavelle, pastor of St. Ambrose Catholic church, Garrettsville; Rev. Richard Gaffney, pastor of St. Paul's Catholic church, and District Deputy Ralph White-leather.

Arrest Two In Fund Fraud

CLEVELAND, March 5.—Two men now are under arrest in a police investigation of unauthorized solicitation of funds for a fake "campaign fund" for Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The governor's secretary, John E. Lokar, said one of the pair endorsed a $100 check solicited from a cafe owner. Lausche has announced that he has not authorized anyone to collect campaign funds.

BEWARE OF PIN-WORMS

Jayne & Son. The small, easy-to-take P.W. tablets give satisfaction or your money back. So why take chances on Pin-Worms! ## ALLIANCE INFANT IS FIRE FATALITY ALLIANCE, March 5.—Walter Lee Rogers, 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Estel Rogers, yesterday became Alliance's seventh fire fatality in six weeks.

The child died of suffocation in flames that damaged the family home while his mother, Lillie Mae, was at a nearby store.

A brother, Spurgeon, 3, also was overcome but was saved by artificial respiration applied by firemen.

Fire Chief J. E. Held said the mother had locked the children in the house while she went to the store and that fire from an overheated chimney caused damage estimated at $600 to the home's interior.

David Jones, a passerby, noticed the flames and smoke, entered
